

ISABELL FULTON
BATHURST ABORIGINAL STUDENT OF THE YEAR

As a college community we are proud that one of our Year 7 students, Isabell Fulton, has been recognised as the 2016 Bathurst Aboriginal Student of the Year for the Bathurst Electorate.

This award is recognition of Isabell's commitment to her school and community. She was commended for being a positive role model and leader for her peers.

Isabell was nominated by Mrs Karen Brown, our Aboriginal Education Worker, for being an all rounder who immerses herself in all aspects of school life – her academic studies and application. She participates in school band and performs regularly at community and charity events.

Isabell is supportive and considerate of her peers and has shown she is a natural leader, organising with her peers to start a 'girl' band for Year 7 students at the college. We were very proud to have presented her with this award at our whole school assembly recently.
